Violent Extremism in Sahel: Drivers

Youth unemployment and radicalisation

Lack of sustainable economic opportunities and radicalisation make children and young people vulnerable to violent extremist groups, which offer alternative material incentives.

Farmer/herder conflicts

These conflicts over land, access and exploitation of natural resources, lead to increased tensions within communities.

Governance-related grievances:

Violent extremist groups thrive on the weakened state power and exploit an institutional vacuum resulting from the political context to increase their presence on the ground.

Human trafficking and modern slavery are on the rise in Mali. Victims of these human rights abuses are more vulnerable to radicalisation.

Current Programming in Sahel: Systems Approach

GCERF delineates Sahel within the context of the Group of Five Countries for the Sahel, also known as G5 Sahel, the intergovernmental body to promote regional cooperation in development and security matters. Our focus is on Burkina Faso, Chad, Mali, Mauritania, and Niger. Our engagement in the region will directly bolster the implementation of National Action Plans of the five countries working in partnership with local, national, regional, and global partners.

GCERF's strategy for engagement in the Sahel region is built around two strategic objectives:

To contribute to improvements in the social ecology to create conditions conducive to prevention and resilience-building.

To facilitate community-led rehabilitation, disengagement, and (re)integration, including people disengaging from criminal, non-state armed, and violent extremist groups.

GCERF will mobilise and invest up to USD 10 million to meet these objectives in a minimum period of three years. GCERF will prioritise resilience and prevention programming, including cross-border projects, that meet these objectives – all within the scope of regional and national NAPs and equivalents in order to achieve its overarching objective of supporting the emergence of anchors of stability and resilience.

Souleymane Tankoino, Director of the Training Centre for Trades in the commune of Téra, praised the training in innovative trades and encouraged its continuation as part of the Association des Scouts du Niger's programme.

"Through vocational training, we have been able to discover that young people have talent and the desire to do things. We have found young girls who have done extraordinary achievements. Thanks to training workshops that specialise young people and enable them to find work easily, we are teaching these vulnerable young people to find a way out and not fall into the hands of the wrong people."

GCERF's Added Value

GCERF focuses on building institutional capacity e.g., CSOs, government agencies, and Community Engagement Forums

GCERF invests in building a PVE-focused community of practice with CSOs, government agencies, and experts

Communities are at the forefront of project design and implementation, and the programme works with existing community structures for sustainability

All project design and implementation are done in coordination with NCTC, leading to nationally-aligned, locally-led programmes

GCERF connects CSOs, communities, and other stakeholders with government and security actors, leading to better coordination and relationships

GCERF's consortium model and capacity-building approach enables us to work in remote areas
